

Leuven Gierzwaluwenstad

De Ferri-steenzwaluw

A black bird, likely a swallow, is captured in flight over a red-tiled roof. The bird is positioned in the lower right quadrant of the frame, with its wings spread and its tail feathers visible. The background is a blurred view of a cityscape, showing a dark blue roof with several orange-tiled chimneys and a white building facade. The overall scene is set against a clear blue sky.

A photograph of a brick courtyard. The walls are made of red brick with horizontal bands of light-colored stone or concrete. At the top, there is a balcony with a brick railing featuring several arched openings. Two black downspouts run vertically down the walls. In the center, there is a structure with a grey, gabled roof. At the bottom, there are windows with light-colored frames. The text "30-tal bezocht / beslapen of bezet" is overlaid in white in the center of the image.

A square wooden door is set into a rough, textured wall. The door has two circular holes, one near the top and one near the bottom. The wall is made of a mix of grey and brown material, possibly concrete or stone, with some white residue on the left side. The door is slightly recessed into the wall.

A black bird, possibly a crow or raven, is captured in mid-flight over a paved garden path. The bird's wings are spread wide, showing the intricate structure of its feathers. The background is a lush garden with green bushes and trees, slightly out of focus. The lighting is bright, suggesting a sunny day.
